EMTPortal Free Service Aids in Over 650 EMT Successful Certifications

United States – June 08, 2009 – Publically free service known as "EMTPortal" has aided in the successful completion of testing and valid certification of over 650 EMT candidates across the United States since its initial launch in December of 2007.

Over the past year and a half, EMTPortal has dedicated its online existence to offering a free-to-public study, and test preparation portal for EMS Instructors, EMT / Paramedic Candidates, and EMT CEU Seekers.

First-Hand Metrical Reporting

While reading an article published by a "Michael Stewart, EMS-I", it was mentioned that;
"each of the courses I'm involved in has at least 50 students, while before relying on EMTPortal our students and classes would have around an 94% pass rate for state level testing, and an even lower 86% pass rate for the National (NREMT) testing"

Further reading, Mr. Stewart says;

"The 15 classes we've held, and instructed the use of EMTPortal to our students our state level testing pass rate has gone to 99%, and our National NREMT pass rate has jumped to 95%!"

It is very pleasing to see first-hand the metrics from the reports of successful completions and certifications due to our service, and the EMS Instructors out there.

EMTPortal Launches Version 2.0

It comes with great excitement that today, EMTPortal will announce the official launch of our new and enhanced version 2.0 at <http://www.emtportal.com/>, while still remaining completely free to the public.

The new version includes much more material, and many other "under-the-hood" enhancements to ensure a rich, useful, and complete portal for further education and preparation for course-level testing, State level EMS testing, and finally (the at times fearful) National Registry of Emergency Medical Technicians (NREMT) testing.

We at EMTPortal are again very pleased with the numbers on metrics reported with the successful certifications. Our free service will continue to remain free to use (while we do request and encourage a small donation from time to time), and will also continue to receive periodic upgrades and enhancements.

Spread EMTPortal Around to Others

If you are currently enrolled in an EMS course (First Responder, Basic, Intermediate, or Paramedic), have already obtained certification from NREMT or State Level Emergency Medical Services, or are and planning on enrolling in the near future – take your education to a higher level while having confidence in your ability to pass the required testing for successful certification – come to www.EMTPortal.com today!

Media kits are available upon request, containing brochures, flyers, shirts, etc. For more information; contact EMTPortal at info@emtportal.com or toll-free at 1-866-944-6812.
